

Kennedy Nehru In Meeting

An Addition To Original Schedules

WASHINGTON (P) — President Kennedy and India's Prime Minister Nehru engaged in their third round of marathon talks today on the whole range of cold war problems.

This session was an addition to their original schedule. The Indian leader said the extra meeting with the President was simply a continuation of the conversations they have held over the past two days.

Kennedy also holds a news conference late this afternoon.

So far, Kennedy and Nehru have discussed most of the major problems of the cold war, including Southeast Asia, Berlin and nuclear testing.

The latter was one of the points of sharpest disagreement between the United States and India before Nehru's arrival Monday.

Nehru, informants said, held that a voluntary moratorium on testing should be renewed with the Soviet Union and that this would not stop an agreement on controls from being worked out during the moratorium.

The United States view is that a moratorium on testing places restraint on open societies such as the United States but does not prevent closed societies such as the Soviet Union from preparing for or conducting tests in secret.

U. S. officials have said the Soviets made detailed preparations for their current nuclear tests during the moratorium the Soviet Union broke Sept. 1.

White House press secretary Pierre Salinger said five topics dominated Tuesday's 2½ hour talk.

In addition to nuclear testing they were:

BERLIN — Kennedy presented the U. S. position in detail. Nehru, Indian sources said, told the President that free access to the city must be guaranteed to the Western powers and that Soviet Premier Khrushchev took the same position. Nehru talked with Khrushchev in September. The informants said Nehru also stated that West Berlin residents should be left free to live their own way.

SOUTHEAST ASIA — They talked about Laos and South Viet Nam, both menaced by Communist forces, and discussed how independent governments can be maintained and protected from outside intrusion.

BELGRADE CONFERENCE — Nehru gave his view of the September meeting of the 25 non-aligned nations. The positions expressed there by some of the nations, particularly on nuclear testing, were bitterly criticized in the (Please turn to Page 4, Col. 7)

Seeks Fast Accord On Negotiations

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy hopes to reach quick agreement with German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer later this month on issues that the Western powers may negotiate with the Soviet Union in the search for a peaceful solution to the Berlin crisis.

The White House announced Tuesday that Adenauer would visit Washington Nov. 20-21 for talks with the President on Berlin problems and "other matters of common interest."

If the U. S.-West German summit discussions are successful, they will be followed by efforts to reach detailed agreements among the Western powers on a Berlin negotiating position.

In this prospective second stage, the President's task will be to try to win an accord with French President Charles de Gaulle, who has been opposed to negotiations with the Soviets until Premier Khrushchev has modified his position on Berlin.

The Adenauer visit to Washington will be held about a month later than U. S. officials had hoped. The delay was occasioned by Adenauer's need to form a coalition government following the Sept. 17 elections, which reduced his political strength. His domestic problems were finally resolved Friday and the announcement of his visit to Washington followed quickly.

Alertness Probably Saved Life

Alertness of two four-year-olds probably saved the life of the brother of one who had become entangled in a rope on a swing set and was nearly hanged. The incident occurred about 3:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon to little Danny Pender, two and a half years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Pender, 2400 West Second Street.

Jimmy Pender, four and a half, his brother, and Lynn Southwick, four, daughter of Trooper and Mrs. William Southwick, 2406 West Second, were playing in the yard when Danny became entangled. They ran to the Pender home and told the mother, "Danny is hanging."

Mrs. Pender rushed from their home to the swing set and untangled the rope from the child's neck. He had already turned blue, but a slight whimper came from him as she grabbed him in her arms.

Mrs. Southwick heard the call of Mrs. Pender for help, and called Dr. A. J. Campbell. He requested them to bring the child to his office immediately, they being able to get there before he could leave the office, get to his car and out to the house.

Dr. Campbell examined the baby and found he was "bouncing back," did not go into shock, but had a very, very narrow escape with death. It was reported Dr. Campbell remarked a second or two later and it would have been too late. The child had bruises about the neck, caused by the rope.

The swing set was that of a neighbors. The rope apparently had been thrown over the set by older children, and Danny being the explorer type of child, evi-

No Decision On President For Ecuador

One Quits Office, Two Take the Oath; Controversy Rages

QUITO, Ecuador (AP) — Jose Maria Velasco Ibarra resigned as president during the night under pressure from the military. The army then installed the president of the Supreme Court in the office. But Congress named leftist Vice President Carlos Julio Arosemena to head the country.

The Supreme Court president, Camilo Gallegos Toledo, took the oath of office as president. There was no clear word as to the whereabouts of Velasco Ibarra.

The army announced it had installed Gallegos because "the breach between the executive and legislative powers had become so deep it could not be bridged."

Congress, on the other hand, elevated the vice president to the position as prescribed in the constitution.

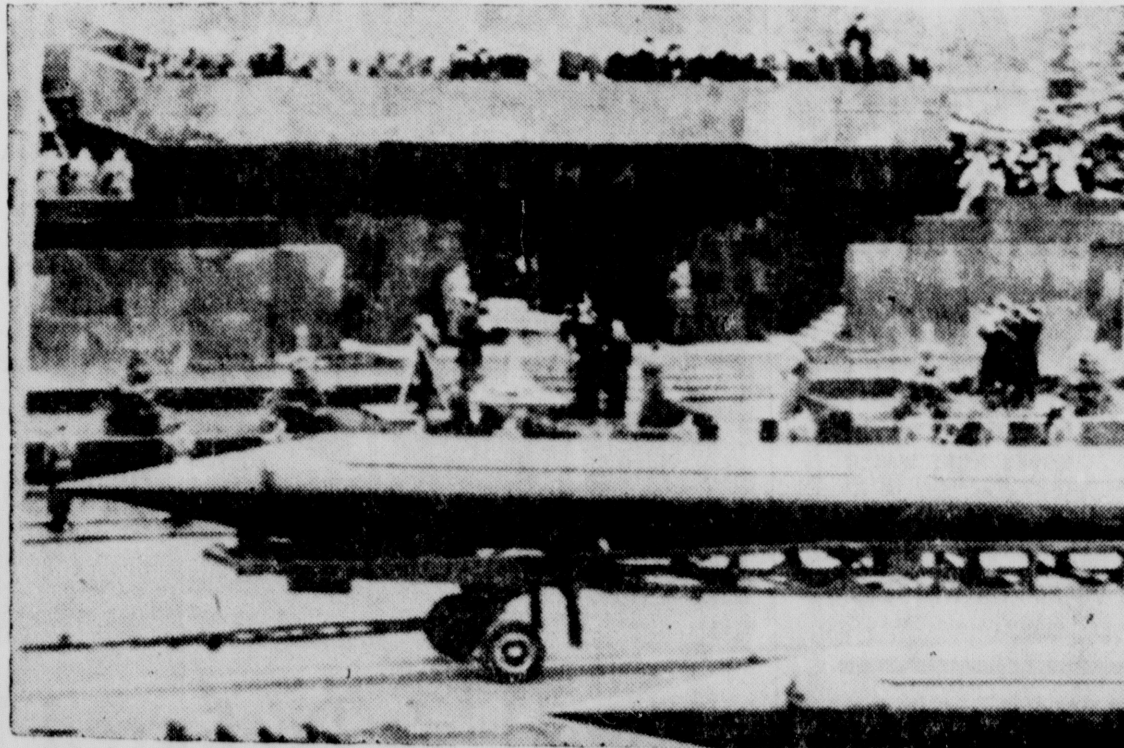

Before being thrown out as president for the third time in four times elected to the office, Velasco Ibarra accused Arosemena of being a Communist and trying to set up a dictatorship and said he no longer was vice president.

Gallegos was in the presidential palace, abandoned Tuesday night by Velasco Ibarra. He has the title of "interim president."

Arosemena, who was freed from jail in complicated maneuvering Tuesday night, was in the congressional palace, surrounded by his supporters in Congress. Arosemena calls himself "constitutional president" on the ground the constitution calls for the vice president to succeed the president in cases of absence or resignation. The constitution makes the Supreme Court president, Gallegos, second in line.

Men Battle To Save Area Threatened By New Blaze

Fire That Razed Movie Homes Is Under Control

LOS ANGELES (P) — An army of men set backfires and hacked fire lines today in a battle to save the homes, many palatial, of coastal Pacific Palisades.

Flames burning down tinder-dry, brush-covered mountain canyons cracked within half a mile of scattered houses on the community's outskirts and a mile of built-up residential sections.

Other fire fighters patrolled the separate but nearby brush fire that consumed 250 homes, many of movie stars and millionaires, in Bel Air and Brentwood.

That disastrous blaze was contained Tuesday night, but officials said winds, if they came, could whip it up again.

Bombers dropping a fire-retardant borate solution joined ground crews in attacking the hot southerly front of the Topanga Canyon fire threatening Pacific Palisades. A front three or four miles long flared out of control.

About 1,500 men from many agencies fought or patrolled both fires, the worst in Southern California history.

Late statistics on the twin fire disasters included:

Acreage destroyed was 7,400 in Topanga Canyon, 5,750 in Bel-Air, all of which would have been prime defense against spring floods.

Homes destroyed numbered 259. Nine were in Topanga Canyon. Hundreds of other homes were badly damaged or scorched.

Injuries, none serious, were suffered by 100 firemen and residents.

A wind of about 10 miles an hour on the fire front blew the flames in the direction of Pacific Palisades today. Backfiring during the night halted the Topanga blaze along a six-mile easterly front.

One crew took up defensive positions today near the Huntington (Please turn to Page 4, Col. 3)

Red Bloc In Attack On West

Colonial Power Is The Issue

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (P) — The Soviet bloc and a host of Asian-African nations today pressed one of the bitterest attacks on Western colonial powers in U. N. history.

Colonialism was under simultaneous fire in the 13-nation General Assembly and two of its main committees. However, there was no attack on Communist domination of subject countries to which most of the Asians and Africans turn a blind eye.

In the General Assembly debate got under way on proposals to carry out the United Nations' 1960 declaration against colonialism. The Soviet Union denounced the United States and Britain as the main colonial powers barring freedom for millions of people. The United States countered that the U. S. S. R. was using colonialism as a pretext for a propaganda attack on the West.

In the Trusteeship Committee a parade of Communist, Asian and African countries blasted Portugal for the way it runs its overseas territories.

In the special Political Committee, nation after nation bitterly assailed South Africa's white supremacist policy and pointed to it as an outgrowth of the colonial system.

Colonialism also was probably in for another going-over in the main Political Committee, which opened debate on an Asian-African resolution demanding that all Africa be kept free of nuclear weapons and all foreign bases on the continent be liquidated.

Death Decree In Slayings By Teenagers

RUSSELL, Kan. (AP) — Two teen-age soldiers who once brashly told of killing seven persons in a cross-country trail of robbery and death have been sentenced to hang for killing a western Kansas railroader, their sixth victim.

James Douglas Latham, 19, of Mauriceville, Tex., and George Ronald York, 18, of Jacksonville, Fla., showed no emotion as they heard the verdict late Tuesday. York later stuck his tongue at photographers as he and Latham were returned to jail.

The all male jury convicted them of first degree murder for the death of Otto E. Ziegler, 62, of Oakley, Kan. Ziegler was shot to death June 9 and robbed of $51 at a lonely spot along U.S. 40 near Sharon Springs, Kan., not far from the Colorado line.

The long process of appealing the verdict will start Nov. 18 with a hearing on a motion for a new trial. The next step is an appeal to the Kansas Supreme Court.

Returning their verdict after 13 days of testimony and argument, the jurors rejected contentions the youths are mentally unstable and too young to die by hanging. The defense also argued the state failed to prove premeditation, a necessary ingredient of the first degree charge.

Democrats Take 2 Big Elections

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Democrats have captured both prizes in the two big elections, grinding out an upset by electing the governor in New Jersey and easily winning the New York mayoral race.

Both elections Tuesday were intensely watched by politicians who regarded them as important in gauging how the political winds may blow in 1962 and 1964.

Both parties had wheeled their big guns into the New Jersey campaign. President Kennedy and former President Harry S. Truman campaigned for Hughes. Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower campaigned for Mitchell.

Virginia voters followed tradition by giving Democrat Albert S. Harrison Jr.—and the state organization of U.S. Sen. Harry F. Byrd — a one-sided victory over Republican H. Clyde Pearson in the race for governor.

In Kentucky, however, Republicans cracked 28 years of Democratic rule in Louisville by sweeping into the mayor's office and other top posts. The GOP also sewed up surrounding Jefferson County for the first time in 16 years.

In Washington, Republican National Chairman William E. Miller called the Kentucky victories "a good omen for 1962" and a "victory of major proportions."

About $2,000 Damage Is Done By Fire to Home

A fire of undetermined origin did approximately $2,000 damage to a residence at 410 North Brown Tuesday afternoon. Fire Chief Emmet "Potts" Vaught said the fire might have resulted from smoking in the vicinity of a divan located in the living room.

According to Vaught, the damage to the house itself was estimated at $1,250 and the damage to the contents was approximately $750. Much of the contents was damaged by smoke and the furniture in the living room was also damaged by water.

Vaught said that Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Gage, the occupants, had returned from work during the noon hour but left for work about 12:30 p.m. The blaze was discovered by a neighbor who turned in the alarm about 3:48 p.m.

The Gages stayed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Horst, 426 North Brown, Tuesday night. According to Mrs. Gage, their plans after this were uncertain.

The house, a two-story frame building, is owned by Mrs. Gage and both it and the contents are covered by insurance.

Despite Coalition

Expect Adenauer to Hold Tough Policy Toward Reds

BONN, Germany (AP) — Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, just re-elected to head a new coalition government for West Germany, is expected to continue his tough policy toward the Communist bloc.

Associates say the 85-year-old chancellor will not soften despite the wish of his coalition partners, the Free Democrats.

The Free Democrats have made plain they won't press too much for a change. Party chief Erich Mende has said his group would "try to make the others see our points but we won't force our ideas upon them."

The Free Democratic ideas conflicting with Adenauer's, which include diplomatic recognition of such Communist countries as Poland and Czechoslovakia, actually are insignificant compared to the areas in which the smaller party fully agrees with Adenauer and his Christian Democrats.

Thus there will be no change in Bonn's full support of the Atlantic Alliance and the European Economic Community and its policy of strengthening European cooperation through increased political consultations.

Adenauer's first important foreign policy move in his fourth term as chancellor will be a meeting in Washington with President John F. Kennedy Nov. 20.

Authoritative sources said Adenauer will bring up three major points in his talks with the American president:

1. Defense and security of the free world, particularly of West Germany.

2. Continued refusal to recognize Communist East Germany.

3. West German readiness to take up certain technical contacts with the East German regime short of diplomatic recognition.

Adenauer has been worried about an idea in some U.S. circles that West German armed forces might be reduced as a means of easing East-West tensions.

"Adenauer will make clear to Mr. Kennedy that the defense and security of West Germany is more important than the reunification of Germany," one informant said.

"The chancellor feels that any reduction of West German forces would mean the loss of West Germany to the Communists. Reunification must continue to be a part of West German foreign policy but never at the expense of West German security."

Adenauer will tell Kennedy that recognition of the Walter Ulbricht regime would amount to "high treason" and will never be considered by the present Bonn government.

"But the chancellor will also indicate that we are ready to take up certain technical contacts regarding trade, inter-German transport and especially regarding the free movement of persons between the two parts," the sources said.

Grabs Governorship

Narrow Margin for Hughes Jolts GOP Comeback Hopes

NEWARK, N. J. (AP) — A startling, paper-thin victory by Democrat Richard J. Hughes in the race for governor of New Jersey boosted President Kennedy's political stock today, and jolted Republican hopes for a comeback next year.

It was the first great test of strength between the two major parties since Kennedy took office. Hughes led by a fraction of a percentage point over Republican James P. Mitchell, secretary of labor under former President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Hughes will be the first Roman Catholic governor in New Jersey's history when he takes office in January. Mitchell also is a Catholic.

Returns from 4,277 of the state's 4,395 districts showed: Hughes 1,054,544, Mitchell 1,014,760.

However, Hughes did not immediately claim victory. Mitchell issued no statement conceding the election.

"I am going to wait until there is a concession by Mr. Mitchell," Hughes said. Shortly after 1 a.m., he said he was going home to bed.

Kennedy laid a measure of his own political prestige on the line when he said, in a campaign speech for Hughes last week: "What we are trying to do in the nation's capital is what Judge Hughes will do when he is elected governor."

Former President Harry S. Truman also came into New Jersey to stump for Hughes.

Eisenhower, campaigning for Mitchell, said the New Jersey election "unequivocally" would affect the 1962 congressional races. Like political analysts across the nation, he said he saw the gubernatorial battle as an omen of the future.

Kennedy carried New Jersey by 22,000 last year.

The most optimistic prediction, by Hughes' supporters, was that he would win by 25,000 votes. His campaign manager, Richard Burkhardt, said he thought the final tally might be so close that a recount would be necessary.

Hughes was not well known in his own state. He is a former State Superior Court judge who left the bench to resume his law practice.

ta25blwyfnew jersey—gal 2 zr8 He is six feet tall, a big-bodied man with a shock of curly hair. He has six children and three step-children. His first wife died in 1950, leaving him with four children. He married Betty Murphy in 1954. She had three children, and they have two of their own now.

Two days before the election, Hughes' 85-year-old father died.

"We had hoped that dad would be around to share it (the victory) with us," Hughes said.

Mitchell was rated the favorite by most political analysts largely because his seven years as a Cabinet member had made him better known in New Jersey.

Hughes argued that, by reason of Mitchell's long absence from the state, he was not familiar with its problems. Hughes also challenged Mitchell to a series of public debates, and assailed him sharply when Mitchell refused.

He made himself known by nine months of nonstop campaigning. His aides estimated he shook hands with more than 200,000 persons.

Mitchell hammered on the theme of "bossism" among the Democrats. He broke his leg during the campaign and was immobilized for a time.

When the returns began rolling in the big Democratic counties, Essex and Hudson, put Hughes into an early lead. They embrace the major cities of Newark and Jersey City and are highly industrialized.

Bergen County, a Republican stronghold facing New York City across the Hudson River, was Mitchell's mainstay. It gave him a margin of about 45,000 over Hughes.

Gable's Boy Is Image Of His Father

By JAMES BACON
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The little fellow's shoulders and legs were those of a Notre Dame tackle in miniature. His head was handsome with its wild forelock as he looked up from a blanket on the floor.

Then the baby grinned. The grin stretched from ear to ear, curling the left eyebrow.

The grin came easily and often. The effect was almost eerie. No mistaking whose son this was, John Clark Gable, age 7½ months is daddy's boy.

So remarkable is the resemblance that even pictures fail to catch all of it. It's wonderful, but sad, for this is the boy whose impending birth was awaited by his father as the most important event in an unusually eventful life.

It's almost a year to the day that I talked with Clark Gable on the set of "The Misfits." It was a Friday afternoon and only one scene remained of the picture that was to prove the most arduous of a distinguished career. He talked only of the coming baby.

"This is a dividend that has come to me late in life. When I wind up this picture, I'm taking off until the baby is born in March. I want to be there when it happens—and I want to be there a good many months afterward," Gable said.

"This is my 90th picture—and it's been a tough one. I'm not doing any more for a long while. I want to enjoy my son."

Early the following Sunday morning, he suffered a severe coronary. Ten days later, on Nov. 16, the king of the movies was dead.

As the husky son he never lived to see smiled happily on the floor, I recalled Clark's words to his beautiful widow, Kay.

"Did pa say 'his son'?"

"Nothing else—it was always 'my son' or 'he.'"

"That's very interesting," Kay reflected. "He never once spoke of a son to me when we talked

Kay had disastrous earlier marriages—and so had Gable. But she has found solace in the baby and her two older children, Bunker, 12, and Joan, 10, by a previous marriage to sugar heir Adolph Spreckels II who died last month of a fall.

Last Christmas Eve she went to Gable's grave at Forest Lawn expecting only to leave flowers and pay a brief visit.

"I was there for five hours," she said. "I haven't been back."

Time does not heal the grief, she said.

DeGaulle Opposing Talks With Leaders Of Kremlin

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
Associated Press News Analyst
PARIS (AP)—Westerners who see President Charles de Gaulle frequently are picturing him as convinced that the Kremlin is intent upon sending a shock wave of neutralism through the heart of Europe.

This is the reason, they say, why De Gaulle raises his voice against any negotiations with the Soviets in an atmosphere of manufactured crisis, why he considers feelers toward the Russians would be a sign of Western weakness.

De Gaulle is represented as solemnly warning the West: Beware of summit meetings. Beware of negotiating under the appearance of Soviet threat. Beware of Soviet designs in Western Germany.

De Gaulle is said to feel the Kremlin is operating on the theory of "disarming the enemy." It considers West Germany an important link in the North Atlantic Treaty alliance, a link which must be removed if the alliance is to be broken up.

The Kremlin, so the thinking goes, wants to neutralize West Germany and create a no-man's land extending to the Rhine and the borders of France. De Gaulle considers this a peril.

Western sources enthusiastically credit De Gaulle with remarkable success in achieving French-West German cooperation, which De Gaulle seems to consider basic, a key to continued solidarity of the West.

Thus, De Gaulle would look down upon the notion of negotiations which even implied recognition formally of Communist rule in East Germany, or of any negotiations having the appearance of sacrificing West German interests, damaging West German relations with the West or frightening the West Germans.

This seems to be why De Gaulle at times appearing to some British and Americans as stubborn, is cautious on tactics involving talks with the Russians. De Gaulle apparently sees no basis for negotiation with the Kremlin so long as it continues to generate crises and raise threats.

He is pictured as saying: Suppose a summit meeting were held on the German-Berlin questions and failed? What would be left? What possibly could come next?

France's president is said to feel the Russians will not take long risks to gobble up West Berlin. His argument is relayed like this: If the Russians are intent on going to war, there is no point in negotiating. If they are not going to war, there is still no point in negotiating.

This means he sees no reason to negotiate until the West is sure it is not approaching the Soviets from positions of weakness.

The French president is reported to have put the matter this way: If the Russians want a relaxation of tensions, there must be a balance in Europe and the world, there must be equilibrium. There could be no equilibrium in Europe without West Germany on the Western side, tightly tied in with Western policy.

De Gaulle, of course, is aware that eventually the Kremlin may go through with its plan to sign a separate peace treaty with the East German Communist regime. If that happened, it is likely the West would be forced to deal with the East Germans, even if insisting they were only agents of the Soviet occupation.

De Gaulle seems to concede not much could be done about such a development. But apparently he remains dead set against any willing concessions to the Russians, and insists that the Russians make some concessions to the West, at least to the extent of easing crisis pressures. The greater the noise the Soviets make, the less De Gaulle is inclined to talk with them.

De Gaulle does not view his own stand as presenting any complications with regard to building a united Western attitude toward the Russians. He admires President Kennedy, has faith in his ultimate ability to counter Soviet threats. He seems to understand Washington's eagerness to bring about some relaxation of the cold war.

But De Gaulle thinks in terms of continental solidarity and is unwilling to commit the continental powers to any course he considers dangerous to the future of Western Europe.

Ducktail Cut Touches Off School Rift

PERRY, Ga. (AP) — Does an American teenager have a basic right to wear any kind of haircut he chooses?

Yes, says the father of a boy suspended from school for wearing a ducktail haircut.

No, says the school principal and the school board.

The father, Walter C. Sorrells, argued Tuesday that the ducktail is a harmless passing fancy and he is going to court to prove his point.

Ducktail haircuts are popular among the rock 'n' roll set. The hair is worn long and combed to a point in the back.

The principal, Eric Staples, said the school board recently banned "unconventional haircuts" because they sometimes were associated with delinquency.

But Stanley Sorrells, 17, center of the controversy, contended that the ducktail was "the kind you see on all the popular young actors, singers and politicians."

At a hearing before the Houston County School Board, Sorrells said his son has a basic American right to wear any hair style he chooses.

"The right of choice was won when Cornwallis surrendered to General Washington at Yorktown," he asserted, "and I mean to defend that right."

Stanley's mother agreed.

"Why, if Stanley is willing to stand the ridicule, he has the right to wear a Chinese queue or go to a beauty shop and get a permanent," she told the school board.

The Sorrells argued unsuccessfully. The board voted unanimously to uphold the eight-day suspension.

Sorrells said he would appeal to the State Board of Education. He has filed suit in Superior Court to enjoin the principal from enforcing the no-ducktail rule.

"Nothing has ever worried me as much as this," said Sorrells, a civilian employee at Robins Air Force Base. "With our freedom being challenged by Communism on all the world fronts the least we can do is fight to protect our rights at home."

Thinks Farmers Waste Too Much Ensilage Feed

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Roswell Garst, who once played host to Nikita Khrushchev at his farm near Coon Rapids, Iowa, says Kansas is an awful waster of grain sorghum stubble.

"There is enough of this in Southwest Kansas to feed all the cows that the state could winter," Garst told the annual convention of Farm Equipment Manufacturers.

Garst is an international authority on the growing of corn and the feeding of cattle and believes strongly in the benefits of ensilage. He told the manufacturers they ought to make more and better equipment for chopping corn stalks, corn cobs and other cellulose.

"By making silage, you harvest 100 per cent of the feed unit in the crop," he said. "When corn is shelled, you are harvesting only 60 per cent of the feed units. No industry can afford to throw away 40 per cent of its production."

"A ton of cobs, properly supplemented, is more beneficial to cattle than the best alfalfa or clover hay ever put up."

Molotov Absent From Top Level Red Reception

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — Vyacheslav M. Molotov, who participated in the 1917 Bolshevik revolution, was conspicuously absent Tuesday night from a Soviet Embassy reception here celebrating the revolution's 44th anniversary.

Soviet informants said he had been invited but excused himself because of a cold.

Premier Khrushchev denounced Molotov as head of an antiparty group at the recent Moscow party congress. He told correspondents in Moscow Tuesday Molotov's fate had not yet been decided.

Molotov is a Soviet representative at the International Atomic Energy Agency in Vienna.

Thant Believes UN Will Solve Fund Problems

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Acting Secretary-General U Thant expressed optimism Tuesday that despite "apparent differences or divisions" the United Nations will solve its financial difficulties.

Appearing before the assembly's budgetary committee, he said it is clear the United Nations "will inevitably be weakened, and seriously so, if its administrative and financial integrity is not zealously maintained."

He did not refer specifically to the situation caused by refusal of the Soviet bloc, France, South Africa and some others to pay assessments for the multimillion-dollar Congo operation, and Soviet bloc and Arab refusal to pay for the U. N. Emergency Force in the Middle East.

Family Fishing World Series Will Be Set Up

BRANSON, Mo. (AP)—A world series of fresh water fishing by families will be established next August in the Table Rock, Taney-corno and Bull Shoals lake area.

Plans were made Monday by boat dock operators in a meeting with Hi Peskin of Monterey, Calif., director of the world series of sport fishing, which was held recently at Grand Lake in Oklahoma.

'Defenders' Attempt New Plot Angles

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The too-familiar ingredients of the television series are all there in the format of CBS' "The Defenders." There's the father-son team of dedicated lawyers, widower and bachelor. There are the weekly courtroom scenes. And there is, of course, the eternally fascinating peek into the lives of a different set of troubled people.

But there "The Defenders" resemblance to the average TV series stops abruptly. What makes the difference is Reginald Rose, a highly respected TV writer who fearlessly tackles controversial themes. He serves as the series' script editor and, often, as its writer.

Last Saturday, "The Defenders" started down a well-trodden path: the tipsy, spoiled girl whose car strikes a child at an intersection. The child is rushed to the hospital and emergency surgery is ordered. You can almost finish the usual plot yourself, including the final scene, with the smiling child on his way to recovery.

But in "The Defenders," the child died. The story itself was primarily concerned with the boy's parents, whose religious beliefs forbade both blood transfusions and surgery—a touchy TV subject.

Other episodes have taken on such questions as mongolism and mercy-killing and unwed parents. Future shows will deal with a miscarriage of justice, abortion, a child rapist, and a consideration of bribery of college athletes—who are going to school on scholarships awarded for games-playing skills rather than scholarship. "Many of these shows," said Rose, "are really morality shows. We're attempting to deal with the law realistically because we feel that the courtroom drama lies here. Other courtroom dramas are glamorized. We're trying to get to the real motives of real people."

Rose's previous TV credits include a number of "Studio One" shows including "Twelve Angry Men," and that two-part NBC show on Sacco and Vanzetti which blew up a storm of controversy and complaint.

It is strange that in all these years, nobody ever came up with the obvious, a comedy sketch kiding Perry Mason, the lawyer who never loses a case—until Jack Benny got around to it last Sunday.

Ever since CBS' "Gunsmoke" went to an hour's length and NBC started programming old feature movies opposite it, the show has slipped in popularity. NBC's "Bonanza," now released from "Perry Mason" competition, has zoomed right up to the top.

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—The will of film pioneer Joseph M. Schenck disposes of an estate valued at more than $3.5 million.

Adenauer No Longer a Strongman

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—The difference between the ideal and the real has hit West German Chancellor Adenauer with brutal force.

In April, when the 85-year-old Adenauer last came here to get acquainted with President Kennedy, he was the German strongman.

At their meeting's end he and Kennedy said the problem of a divided Germany can be handled only on the basis of self-determination by the German people.

The two leaders said they were speaking specifically of the problem of a divided Berlin, as well as the country as a whole.

This was an idea which the United States helped Adenauer keep alive for years. But it was unreal, and now more so than then.

Premier Khrushchev held Communist East Germany and East Berlin. And he wasn't going to yield or lose either or both to the West.

Now Adenauer is no longer the strongman. In West Germany's September elections Adenauer's Christian Democratic party lost its absolute majority in Parliament.

The September defeat meant the Christian Democrats had to make a deal with the minority Free Democrats to run the show and re-elect Adenauer.

They dickered seven weeks and Tuesday finally made it when Parliament once again chose Adenauer chancellor. But he barely squeaked through. He paid a price.

He granted the Free Democrats five ministers' jobs in his 18-member Cabinet. Worse for him: he agreed if elected to resign before his term's end in 1965.

Tuesday it was announced he will come here again, Nov. 20-21, to confer with Kennedy. This time he comes as a chancellor near the end of his road.

Now any talk of self-determination for East Germany, or East Berlin, or reunification with West Germany, will be even more unreal than in April.

Since Adenauer's last visit Khrushchev not only has made it plain he won't yield an inch on East Germany or East Berlin but is putting heat on West Berlin.

Any talk this time by Kennedy and Adenauer about self-determination will be strictly dream talk. The West showed how little stomach it had for a test on East Germany or East Berlin when it let the Communists wall off East Berlin without trying to remove a stone.

But there is a pressing reality the two men will have to discuss:

Nasser Formally Dissolves Assembly

CAIRO (AP)—President Nasser Tuesday night formally dissolved the National Assembly, formed when Egypt and Syria were partners in the United Arab Republic.

The action came three days after Nasser announced new reforms, including eventual formation of a new political party for Egypt and elections for a constitutional convention.

what kind of deal they can make, and how, with Khrushchev on West Berlin.

Adenauer, like France's President Charles de Gaulle, has been all for delaying negotiations with the Russians. They haven't come up with solutions. But there will have to be solutions.

Khrushchev, without any more expense than threat, bluster, bomb-throwing and demands, at this moment apparently has the Allies split and confused on how to cope with him on Berlin.

Fluoridation Is Voted Down By Big Margin

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah (AP)—Fluoridation of the city's water system was soundly defeated in an election Tuesday.

The vote from 183 of 203 districts was 8,770 in favor of fluoridation to 31,338 opposed.

Organized medical groups all supported fluoridation, arguing that it would reduce tooth decay. Several groups actively opposed it, contending that fluoridation amounted to mass medication; that it was thus a step toward socialized medicine, and that if anybody wanted such use of fluorine against tooth decay, he could get it from his dentist.

Let's All Fly the Flag

Manifestation of patriotism requires more than display of the American flag, but that is a weak excuse not to do so when occasion suggests Old Glory be shown on special days.

We believe Sedalians are as patriotic as any citizen proud of his or her country. More often than not failure to display our flag is because of negligence, or downright laziness. Such laxity may dampen patriotism but does not obscure the strong, deep-seated loyalty of our people.

Manifestation of a lack of energy to display the flag is not something to be encouraged, however. Obviously it should not require a hot war to cause Americans to scamper about trying to locate a misplaced banner of their country.

Up-coming at the end of this week is Veterans' Day — Saturday. Patriotic organizations have made renewed effort to celebrate the occasion in the manner it was done years ago. A parade and program at the Doughboy monument is scheduled, the latter to begin just prior to 11 o'clock in the morning.

How appropriate it would be for Sedalians to recognize this special day, and those who served or died in the service of their country, by displaying the American flag. This gesture might tend to help dispel the idea that patriotism here is ebbing, even superficially.

There are many other special days during the year, some coming soon, during which the flag should be shown — Thanksgiving Day, November 23, Christmas Day, December 25, and New Year's Day, January 1.

But first let's get out the flags on Veterans' Day this coming Saturday downtown as well as in the residential areas, and also join the veterans at their services in front of the Pettis County Court House.

Dairy Farmers Lose To Teamsters

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—There are some important figures behind the New York milk strike—of interest to housewives, farmers, and labor.

During the past ten years, from 1951 to 1961, the wholesale price of milk paid to farmers has decreased. During the same ten years the retail price of milk as purchased by the housewife has gone up—about 130 per cent. This increase has been chiefly due to successive wage boosts demanded by and given to the Teamsters Union.

In 1951 farmers in the New York milkshed received 12.1 cents per quart for their milk. Ten years later, despite an increase in the cost of almost everything the farmer buys and despite the general inflation, the wholesale price of milk had gone down. He was getting 11.09 cents per quart.

Meanwhile the retail cost of milk was 9.9 cents a quart in 1951 and went up to 33.05 cents in 1960-61.

While these prices are for the New York area, the same general pattern has held in other parts of the United States. The farmer's price has either been the same or gone down, while the cost of milk to the consumer has zoomed.

The Teamsters, who called the strike in the New York area and control dairy workers and dairy truck drivers in most areas, are now getting a base pay of 100.50 a week in New York. Added to that they get fringe benefits, plus 2½ per cent commission on home delivered milk, plus 1½ on commercial deliveries. Thus, as the retail price of milk rises, their pay increases.

In the Chicago area, an investigation showed that some truck drivers who served hotels and restaurants made $30,000 a year, while an annual teamster's income of $10,000 was not uncommon.

In contrast, an average dairy farmer working his own farm can make around $50 a week.

Meanwhile, farmers in the New York milkshed have already taken a cut of 15 cents per hundredweight in their price, because the milk they produce during the strike has to be sold at sacrifice prices for cheese and manufactured products. Cows can't stop giving milk merely because of the teamsters.

All this is why sentiment is growing for a National Milk Board, similar to the Railroad Labor Board which would step in and prevent a strike that cuts off the milk of thousands of mothers and children.

Two Roosevelt Ladies

Anna Roosevelt Halstead was a blonde, gay, rosy-cheeked young lady of about 21 when she first came to Washington with her father when he became President of the United States. Her children, Sistine and Buddy, then about the same age as Caroline Kennedy, helped make the White House bedlam.

Last week, a quarter of a century and two wars later, Anna came back to Washington, still rosy-cheeked, a little grayer, but still gay. But if she has not changed, witness her mother, now 77 years old.

"Mother came to see us in Detroit the other day," Anna recalled. "She had to speak in Saginaw, Michigan, at 5:30, then was driven to Albion, Michigan, where she spoke again at 8 p.m., then drove to our house outside Detroit where she arrived a little after midnight."

Her young secretary was exhausted. But mother was up early next morning. We had a brunch for her at 11 and she was off on another speaking engagement at noon. Nobody can keep up with her."

Beginning of a Myth

When Harry Truman was chairman of the Senate investigating committee, he censored one paragraph of his report on Pearl Harbor which showed how Gen. Douglas MacArthur, long after the Japanese attack, had been caught napping in the Philippines. Thus the MacArthur myth which Harry himself could not dispel even when he fired MacArthur.

Now, 20 years later, the Saturday Evening Post and ex-Harvard historian Samuel Eliot Morrison, in a penetrating diagnosis of the Pearl Harbor tragedy, have told the story which the Truman committee previously censored.

"The debacle in the Philippines was never investigated," reports Morrison in the Saturday Evening Post, "but these facts stand out."

"In spite of the Asiatic Fleet's having a purple code machine, which enabled it to crack all the secret Japanese messages, and in spite of General MacArthur's having nine hours warning that Japan had assaulted Pearl Harbor, his planes were caught grounded at noon. Yet Gen. MacArthur became a national hero, while Gen. Short and Admiral Kimmel were retired under a cloud."

NOTE—Sumner Welles, under secretary of state during the period before Pearl Harbor, warned both the army and the navy that an attack was likely to be aimed at Hawaii. His warning went unheeded.

Too Much Castor Oil

The government has put a lot of surplus up for sale in recent years, ranging from destroyers to bath mats, but the most interesting surplus, up for sale right now, is castor oil.

The government has enough castor oil on hand to give all the children in the United States a dose every week for about ten years—if it was refined.

It has a total of 155,676,000 pounds. This is far more than Mussolini used when his Fascist black shirts were harassing Italian Democrats with forced dosages of castor oil. In fact, this is probably the largest amount of castor oil ever amassed by one person or agency.

"Sales," said a spokesman for the General Services Administration, "will be over a five year period so as not to disrupt the market."

"No," he explained, "it cannot be used for purging purposes. It would have to be refined for human consumption. This castor oil is used in lubricants for turbines and jet engines and is a key ingredient in the manufacture of nylon."

Let's You and Him...

Richard M. Nixon thinks it would be a good idea if two prominent candidates for the 1964 GOP presidential nomination, Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York and Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, compete vigorously in a number of primaries.

Nixon says nothing about getting involved himself, assuming he meantime can win the California governorship. Even those who insist on ignoring his 1964 disclaimers think Nixon will sit the primaries out.

Possibly some observers will be moved to echo what President Kennedy said last year of his nonprimary rivals.

"He hopes there will be a good, clean primary fight—with no survivors."

By RAY CROMLEY
Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—The basic key to the future military and economic balance of power between the United States and Russia lies in science.

How then do the U.S. and the Soviet Union compare?

Here is that science balance sheet, from interviews with a dozen United States government scientists who, in turn, have compared notes with several score other government and private scientists who keep in close touch with current Russian research.

Over-all in science the United States is well ahead of the Soviet Union.

The Russians are strong in powerful space boosters and they have quite a capability in atomic weapons. They are excellent in instruments for measuring high thrust, high temperature and large weights. They are very good in oceanography. But they do not have an over-all strong hand.

This is, over-all Russian science does not yet match the science in the West. Much of their work is routine.

The Russians tend to concentrate their men in key fields, push for a breakthrough. They tend to let wide areas go and depend on American, British and other Western research—which they translate diligently—to carry them in these uncovered areas. Their translation of Western scientific research is fabulous.

The Russians have been doing some very good work in physical chemistry and in explosives. They are good in electro-chemistry.

They are woefully weak in IN-ORGANIC chemistry, but moving up. Scientists differ sharply on how the Reds stand on organic chemistry, but there's no doubt about their work on chemical warfare.

Soviet chemical engineering is quite weak. Russian metallurgy is very good.

The Russians have a good tradition in low-temperature physics, essential in the development of better missile fuels. But their does not compare with that in the United States.

We are ahead in the development of missile fuels. That is, new U.S. fuels pack more power per pound. And U.S. scientists are on the verge of much better exotic fuels. The Reds are behind, too, in high energy physics.

The United States is well ahead in chemical engineering and in electrical and electronic engineering. The Russians continually look to the U.S. here. The American petro-chemical industry is much further advanced than is Russia's.

Russian biology is woefully weak. So is Russian medicine. The one major exception: space medicine. Russian genetics is in pitiful shape. They have done reasonably good work in geophysics.

The Russians are putting a great deal of work into finding a way to use thermonuclear power. They are attempting at least one very good approach. But they are not ahead of the U.S. Soviet scientists are substantially ahead of America in theoretical thermoelectricity. But they are having a rough time with their practical applications.

In solid-state physics, the key to missile and space guidance and control systems and to better communications and sensing devices, the Russians started early, did rather nice work in the 1930s.

But the U.S. has been pushing ahead at a rapid pace. In the past decade, the best work by far on practical applications has been done by American and other Western scientists.

The Reds are way behind the U.S. in application to practical problems.

In mathematics, the basis for progress in all the physical sciences, the top Reds and the top American mathematicians are running about neck-and-neck. The Soviet Union has some first-rate men in mathematics and very good theoretical physicists. But for every good man the Soviet Union has, the U.S. has 10 as good or better.

U.S. mathematics is much broader. There are first-rate Americans in almost every field of mathematics.

The Russians concentrate their men more in a few key fields. The Russians right now are putting a heavy emphasis on the theory of nonlinear differential equations—which relates to missile and rocket control. They have many more people in this field and their work is better.

The Russians are strong in the field of probability. More importantly, compared with the U.S., a much larger proportion of Russia's first-class mathematicians work in applied mathematics.

The Reds do not come near the U.S. in computer technology, crucial in the production of better atomic weapons and missiles. But they are well up in information theory.

The best over-all test of how the United States and Russia stand in the sciences, some scientists in this country figure, is by a comparison of Nobel prizes for science. As one research man puts it, "The Swedes couldn't care less who win the prizes."

In the decade of the 1920s, Americans won two Nobel prizes in science, the Russians none. In the '30s, America won 9, the Russians none. In the '40s, Americans won 15, the Russians none. In the '50s, the Americans 27, the Russians 4.

In the decade just finished, Americans and Britons combined won almost 75 per cent of the Nobel science prizes. The Russians won less than 8 per cent.

The Mature Parent

Seek True Key to Distrust Of Child's Initiative

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Mrs. P's mother was a lady who was always biting off more than she could chew. She would say, "I must get that carving knife sharpened"—but for years her holiday turkeys were carved with the big kitchen knife.

She would slice off the too-tight top of Mrs. P's favorite dress—but instead of turning it into the "pretty little school skirt," sooner or later Mrs. P would find her mutilated garment stuffed away in Mama's rag bag. In a burst of enthusiasm Mama would rip all the shelf coverings in the kitchen closet, repaper two of the shelves—and leave the others bare and unsightly.

Inevitably Mrs. P came to the conclusion that people just never finish what they begin. But she was unaware of that conclusion because her dependent respect for Mama made it impossible to register Mama's weaknesses as personal and private to her.

As a result, Mrs. P gets very upset at any evidence of initiative in her children.

Yesterday she felt intense annoyance when she discovered that Jimmy had disassembled his wagon in the driveway. Though he is not Mama, she simply could not credit him with the follow-through required to reassemble his wagon.

So far as Mrs. P was concerned the litter in the driveway was there to stay. Accordingly, she fussed and fussed at Jimmy until he lost his temper and had to be punished for impudence.

For weeks now she has been compelled to discourage Margie's plan to knit herself a sweater. Whenever her daughter raises the question of the purchase of needles and wool, Mrs. P says:

"What do you want to bother with knitting one for when you can get just the color and style you want downtown?"

She envisions hanks of wool and a half-knitted sweater lying around the house for the next 10 years.

Our discouragement of initiative in children is often derived from experiences with childhood authorities like Mrs. P's mama.

It's wise to become aware of this. It's reasonable to start asking ourselves:

"What basis have I for distrusting Jimmy's interest in reassembling his wagon? When Jane takes a magazine to her room, why am I always so sure that I'll never see it again?"

"Why must I always feel that the projects my children undertake will be doomed to incompleteness and failure?"

Such distrust of children's initiative is not the result of our experience with the children.

The Doctor Says

Profit From Wishes Of Released Mental Patient

By Harold Thomas Hyman, M.D.

The extent of the problem of mental aftercare, discussed previously, is best recognized by reference to one set of figures taken from state mental hospitals in 1959. In that year, 175,727 patients were discharged while 80,344 were being readmitted.

In simpler terms, for each pair of the mentally ill, deemed fit for return to community life, one of the previously discharged had to be taken back.

To combat the problem of readmissions, made the more urgent by improved methods of treating mental illnesses, the Joint Commission on Mental Illness and Health is attacking on at least two fronts.

It is a fact that "patients who live alone and without undue family pressures often improve more rapidly and go back to work faster than those who return to their families." So they are seeking to instruct families of discharged patients on ways and means for avoiding or postponing readmissions.

A five-state study showed that a sound aftercare program reduced readmissions from 35 to 15 per cent. Hence they are appealing for aid in obtaining needed facilities.

On the basis of observations by one group of (Vermont) patients, here are suggestions for the family of the recently returned member of the household:

"It takes time to get used to crowds and social gatherings again. So please don't push me. On the other hand, don't shield me. I've been sick and now I am recovering."

"Constant watching makes me nervous and isn't necessary. What I most want is to be accepted as a trustworthy person, able to help myself. But don't ignore me, help me to catch up on what has happened while I've been away."

"When I'm ready to get a job, I will. In the meantime, please don't push me. And when I'm ready, don't hold me back."

"Don't threaten me with a return to the hospital or criticize my appearance. Let me do things that are normal for my age. This includes choosing my own friends and doing things I want to do. Above all, trust me and respect the opinions of the hospital doctors who sent me home. If they tell me to continue taking medicine, see that I do."

"Don't be annoyed with me if I get up early. We all got up early in the hospital, made our own beds and cleaned our rooms. So if I get up before you, understand why."

"Don't be annoyed with me if I eat at odd hours. I've been used to eating at set times that may be different than yours. For a while my appetite may not fit your schedule of meals and my tastes may need adjusting, too."

"Don't be annoyed if I bathe on certain nights and change my clothing then. This is how we did in the hospital. At home it will take me time to figure out the proper schedule and to spruce up."

"Don't be annoyed if I sit a lot and nap in a chair during the day. You may not think I am as glad to be home as I ought to be. But don't worry. I often feel more than I can say."

"Don't be annoyed if, at night, I go to bed early. We did in the hospital and I may still get sleepy at the old time. TV may or may not interest me as much as you think it should."

Life upon the wicked stage may not be what some suppose—but its ill-reputed artistic kabuki theater was under a cloud for centuries. In the beginning, men took women's parts and women dressed as men. Banned for immorality, kabuki reopened with boys in women's parts. But it was banned again. On the next try, grown men took all the parts. Nobody was offended. The kabuki theater is still an all-adult male production.

Drill In Double Talking Pays Off In Daily Lives

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—It's been some time now since we've had a drill on double talk.

Double talk, you remember, is the art of saying one thing while actually thinking another.

There are some who deplore double talk as a form of deceit and regard it as immoral. However, in most ordinary cases it is no more immoral than medicine.

For, in a schizophrenic world, double talk acts as the saving salve of civilization. It enables us to be pleasant to others while leaving us free to be true to ourselves within.

Here are some more useful phrases, and their literal translations, to pep up your double talk vocabulary:

"I hate to ask you for $5 until payday, but the truth is—" The truth is I've already borrowed from everybody else in the office, and you're the only sucker left.

"Let me be the first to congratulate you on your new promotion, Joe." What happened to the boss—is he losing his marbles?

"You'll love this apartment. It has 8½ big rooms." That is, counting the 3½ small closets.

"I don't want you to get the idea I simply hired you to be a yes-man." But if any man is going to say "no" in this organization, it'll be me!

"Oh, darling, what lovely flowers!" What've you been up to now, you bum?

"You pick the restaurant. I really don't care where we eat." So long as the steaks cost $8.50.

"If I were you, sir, I'd try the beef stew—it's especially good today." It was even better the day before yesterday when the chef first cooked it.

"Now I want your honest opinion on this." If you don't like it, shut up!

"That's too bad, Wimberley. But stay home and take care of yourself. That's the important thing. The office can run itself." Nobody has been able to figure out what you do here anyway.

"You're not like most fellows I go out with, Wilbur. I feel safe with you." And so bored, I could scream.

"No, I don't feel angry because you forgot our anniversary, John—just hurt." And, buddy boy, when you get the bill for the new winter coat I bought, you're going to hurt, too.

"Are they really dentures? And all the time I thought they were real." Real walrus tusks.

"Well, it does fit a mite snug, sir, but after all, you've got such wide shoulders." They're particularly wide across the waist.

"Yes, Dr. Frothingham, that was one of the most inspiring sermons I've ever heard. The nap really did me a lot of good."

"I'm ready to go right this min-

but blinded by the lashing rain of cut prices and the howling wind of self service, many have lost sight of the rock—the solid foundation that remains strong and unmoved through all storms and through all time.

• The so-called Retailing Revolution has shaken the faith of some. With some, the Retailing Revolution has created a "Price Complex" way out of proportion with reality. It's a new IMAGE shoddy beneath but coated with the deceptive glitter of a new TIN GOD—PRICE; and with it everything else is shunted into the background: the quality image, the fashion image, the value image, the craft image and the character image.

• The word quality comes from the Latin "qualitis" meaning "how it is made" . . . so instantly, quality is related to value. How a thing is made translates into What it is worth. SO WHEN YOU USE THE WORD QUALITY YOU'RE PLACING A SPECIFIC VALUE ON THE PRODUCT.

Any product, Shoes included, can be built to a price . . .

BUT such a product is built down to a price, rather than up to a standard.

• National Brands contribute much to the quality image of a product, and they contribute much also to the desired quality image of the Store itself. If women seek self-confidence (and they desire much of it, from the clothes they buy and wear) then the National Label is a strong contributing force in this direction.

The Manufacturer Nationally Brands His Product because he is proud of Its Quality Standing—Consumers Know This, hence associate National Brands with Quality and Place their Confidence in the Product and the Store which Sells It.

John's Shoe Store was established and still maintains quality first merchandise—all nationally advertised.

So when John's Shoe Store has a sale on shoes

Uncertainty

Big Ten Bowl Prospects
A Cloudy Picture at Best

NEW YORK (AP)—The always cloudy college football bowl picture has a new element of uncertainty this year—a Big Ten team may not be invited to the biggest of them all, the Rose Bowl in Pasadena, Calif. There is at least a fair chance Alabama might get the bid.

The working agreement between the West Coast and the Big Ten has expired, although Minnesota was invited last year. There is some disagreement with the Big Ten over the game and the upshot could be a switch by the West Coast group to another area for the visiting team.

Among the teams almost certain to be invited somewhere come the bowl season are Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana State and possibly Georgia Tech of the Southeastern Conference; all-conquering Texas of the Southwest Conference; Maryland and Syracuse on the Eastern seaboard and Army and Navy if they descend to go. Any way the pie is cut, the Southeastern Conference gets the big bowl share.

Television is a big factor in the bowl picture. Sponsors want teams with colorful performers and broad regional appeal. Since big money is involved, bowl selectors pay heed. This could work against such fine, unbeaten teams as Colorado and Rutgers.

Here is how the major bowls shape up:

ROSE, at Pasadena, Calif., Jan. 1—UCLA, 2-0 in Big Five play, seems to have the inside track as the Western team, with the issue probably to be decided Nov. 25 in the game with Southern California. Ohio State and Minnesota, unbeaten in the Big Ten, would seem to have first call, but Ken Hooton, a director of the Big Ten Club of Southern California, thinks the academic Senate of Ohio State might veto the game, and that Minnesota might not want a repeat appearance.

All this points to Alabama as a possibility.

COTTON, at Dallas, Jan. 1—Top-ranked Texas seems sure to be host team. Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana State, Georgia Tech and Auburn of the Southeastern Conference are all possible opponents.

SUGAR, at New Orleans, Jan. 1—The stands are segregated and no teams with Negro players will be invited. That points to an all-Southeastern Conference game, and again the possibilities are Louisiana State, Alabama, Mississippi, Georgia Tech and Auburn.

ORANGE, at Miami, Jan. 1—One team will come from the Big Eight but this does not have to be the conference champion, now shaping up as Colorado. "If Colorado falls by the wayside, then we have Missouri or Kansas," says Ernie Seiler, Orange Bowl president. Georgia Tech and Syracuse are possible opponents to the Big Eight representative.

Gator, at Jacksonville, Fla., Dec. 30—The goal is to match a Southeastern team against one from the East. The Eastern group includes Maryland, Syracuse, Army and Navy.

BLUEBONNET, at Houston, Dec. 16—One of the top Southeastern teams is wanted for one opponent, or possibly Navy. For the home team the runner-up in the Southwest Conference will be sought. This could be the winner of Saturday's Rice-Arkansas contest.

LIBERTY BOWL, at Philadelphia, Dec. 16—Maryland, Syracuse, Villanova, Rutgers, Army and Navy are best prospects for host team. For opponents, one of the tough Southeastern Conference teams is being considered along with Rice, Utah State, Miami of Florida, North Carolina and Duke.

GOTHAM, at New York, Dec. 9—Army and Syracuse have been invited. Both are proving coy. Maryland, Miami of Florida, and Georgia Tech are possibilities. Coming as it does the week after the NCAA television program concludes with the Army-Navy game, this new bowl has a momentum TV audience that could help in landing a major attraction.

Vikings Skate
Past Stover
At LaMonte

The LaMonte Vikings, with weapons primed and searching for greater achievements, skated past Stover's growling Bulldogs, 64-59, in a tight, non-conference basketball contest at LaMonte Tuesday night.

The Vikings, with a new skipper at the helm, are firmly heading into the new season. Thus far, they have compiled a 2-1 record, in overall play, while in the PBCAA conference they stand 1-0. The conference victory came over Smithton, while the lone season loss came against Ottreville.

LaMonte, which managed to win only one game last year, trailed by five points, 17-12, at the end of the first period. But then Larry Drunert, six-foot, three-inch senior center, began to hit the loop. He kept connecting with the basket and closed out the game with 38 markers to his credit. He hit for 18 field goals.

That alone would have been enough to keep the Vikings out of trouble, but persistent hitting by the Bulldogs' Shackelford, who came in just behind Drunert with 37 points, kept the defenders running.

Drunert had plenty of help, both defensively and offensively. Ken Breon hit the loop for five field goals and a charity toss for 11 points, while Roger Rumpf, another big man (6'4") collected ten points. High for the Dogs, besides Shackelford, were Delong with 10 and Uptegrove with seven.

LaMonte's junior Vikings were less successful than their older brothers. They dropped their game to Stover, 38-24. Stover, with Geoty hitting for 12 points, had an 16-8 lead at half time, and never lost it.

Tuesday's game was, in a way, a form of vengeance for the Vikings. LaMonte played Stover twice last year, losing both games. Last year was the first year LaMonte played against Stover. Distance prevented the two teams from meeting previously.

The Vikings, not over-confident but with a strong desire to win, battled the Bulldogs down to the wire Tuesday. After three quarters, the Bulldogs still led, but only by one point, 44-43. In the last period, the Vikings put on some extra steam and overcame the final obstacles to victory.

Bob Brady, new pilot for the Vikings and fresh out of college, takes his team against Cole Camp Friday in PBCAA basketball and volleyball games.

Obstreperous Stalwarts
Kicked Dope (Bucket)

By MAJOR AMOS B. HOOPLE
Haltback Specialist

Egad, friends, this football forecasting business is indeed a hazardous one.

Undoubtedly you have noticed how the college stalwarts have been kicking the so-called dope bucket around each Saturday. These obstreperous youngsters seem to take great delight in rubbing the noses of the leading pigskin prophets in Mother Earth.

Bloody but unbowed, to coin a phrase, your fearless forecaster is anxious to gain vindication. This is a big weekend for several clubs.

Can Michigan State carry on to the Big Ten title? Yes, says the Hoopie System. The Spartans, led by that flying Greek, will down the Boilermakers two at a time—er—that is—will thrash the Purdue Boilermakers, 28-16.

In the Ivy League, John Harvard will shock first place Princeton. I predict a 30-20 triumph for the Cambridge lads. My four-star special will find lowly Tulane finishing ahead of Miami's Hurricanes by a 27-10 score — har-rumph!

Go on with the forecast:

Credit Three With Top Performance

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Three rugged guards — Joe Romig of Colorado, Elvin Basham of Kansas and Charlie Wright of Wichita—and tackle Ed Blaine of Missouri were credited with top performances among linemen of the Midlands in football games last Saturday.

Both Romig and Blaine, contenders for regional and possible All America honors since early season, stood out in the crucial Big Eight game at Boulder, Colo., won by Colorado 7-6. Each was credited with 10 or more stops.

Basham, 180-pound senior, who has been especially tough on defense, turned in a fine job in Kansas' 28-6 romp over Nebraska.

Wright, a 210-pound junior from Enid, Okla., was a star in Wichita's 25-13 victory over Oklahoma State. He was credited with eight tackles and several assists.

The AP's District Five all America Board also liked big Jerry Hillebrand, Colorado; Conrad Hitchler, Missouri; Ronny Boydston, Kansas, and Di Mc-Daniel, Nebraska, for end play; and centers Kent Staab, Kansas, and Walt Klinker, Colorado.

John Hadl, Kansas quarterback, continued his strong bid among the backs as did Bill (Thunder) Thornton, of Nebraska; Gale Weidner, of Colorado, and Alex Zyskowski, of Wichita.

Jumping into the limelight for the first time was sophomore full-back Dick Beattie, 190, of Oklahoma, who picked up 120 yards rushing as Oklahoma broke a 5-game losing streak, 17-6, at expense of Kansas State.

Larry (Right Way) Corrigan,

Kansas State's talented sophomore quarterback who has been out with a lame back since the third game of the season, returned to action in the Oklahoma game with a bang.

Sporting new contact lenses, Corrigan passed and ran the K-Staters 90-yards to a touchdown in the fourth period that put the Wildcats back into the game before the Sooners' Mike McClellan swept 82-yards to settle the verdict.

Grid Picture For Weekend Is Forecast

NEW YORK (AP)—A poet once wrote that "once to every man and nation, comes the moment to decide." That doesn't include college football forecasting where you must decide every Wednesday. Last week there were 36 correct decisions, 16 wrong for .692.

This week's picks:
Texas over Baylor: Texas has romped over four conference foes to the average tune of 34-7. What makes you think they won't do the same to Baylor?

Alabama over Richmond: Al most like an open date for the Alabamans.

Ohio State over Indiana: Where do you find a better fullback than Bob Ferguson of the Buckeyes?

Louisiana State over North Carolina: This very easily could go the other way if the LSU Tigers spend too much time re-reading the clippings of their triumph over Mississippi last weekend.

Iowa over Minnesota: The nation's No. 1 team in September needs a victory here to save its season from complete collapse.

Michigan State over Purdue: They can't stop the Spartans two weeks in a row. But the Boiler-makers are rugged.

Mississippi over Chattanooga: The Rebels start another winning streak.

Colorado over Utah: Gale Weidner and his Colorado mates are headed for the Orange Bowl and they are not to be side-tracked at this stage.

Tennessee over Georgia Tech: Some of the wolves are beginning to yelp in Tennessee and that should inspire the Vols.

Missouri over Oklahoma: But not by last year's 41-19 margin. Syracuse over Colgate: Just when Colgate starts on the road back it runs into an angry Ernie Davis.

Duke over Navy: This is the Oyster Bowl game. The Duke razzle-dazzle will decide it.

UCLA over Texas Christian: A toughie but the home field helps the Californians. It is a Friday night contest.

Washington over Oregon State: Too much Huskie speed in the person of Charlie Mitchell.

The others without comment: Friday

Detroit over Villanova, Furman over East Carolina.

Saturday
EAST: Army over William & Mary, Boston University over Connecticut, Buffalo over Virginia Military, Columbia over Dartmouth, Cornell over Brown, Princeton over Harvard, Holy Cross over Massachusetts, Yale over Pennsylvania, Notre Dame over Pittsburgh, Rutgers over Delaware.

SOUTH: Auburn over Mississippi State, Wofford over Davidson, Florida over Georgia, Florida State over The Citadel, Louisiana Tech over Mississippi Southern, Maryland over North Carolina State, Memphis State over North Texas State, Clemson over South Carolina, Miami over Tulane, Kentucky over Vanderbilt, Wake Forest over Virginia Tech, Penn State over West Virginia.

MIDWEST: Miami (Ohio) over Dayton, Michigan over Illinois, Houston over Tulsa, Iowa State over Nebraska, Kansas over Kansas State, Wisconsin over Northwestern, Wichita over Drake, Xavier (Ohio) over Marshall, Utah State over Western Michigan.

SOUTHWEST: Arkansas over Rice, Texas A & M over Southern Methodist, Texas Tech over Boston College, Arizona State over Texas Western, West Texas State over Trinity (Tex.).

FAR WEST: Arizona over Idaho, Brigham Young over Colorado State Univ., California over Air Force, Montana over Montana State, Wyoming over New Mexico, University of Pacific over San Jose, Southern California over Stanford, Oregon over Washington State.

Dragons In Victory Over Warriors

The Boonville Catholic Warriors were no match for the fire-breathing Bunceton Dragons on Tuesday night, and blushing went down in defeat, 53-32, in a CCAA conference contest at Bunceton.

The Dragons, defending champions in the CCAA for the sixth time, opened the game with a three-point advantage at the end of the first quarter.

It was a tremendous tug of war after that, with the Dragons putting on a brilliant offensive showing, holding the weary Warriors to 20 points in three quarters, while they dumped in 43.

Howard Fields and Maurice Miles, on six field goals and two charity tosses, each contributed 28 points to the Dragons' offensive effort. Larry Meyer dropped in 11. For the Warriors, Stoecklin scored 10 to lead his team in the scoring department.

The Dragons, with only two starters returning from last year, are a comparatively young team with a lot of speed and hustle. Tuesday's effort seemed concentrated not so much on making points, but on getting a good lead and then holding the opposition down to almost nothing.

Bunceton has captured the CCAA conference championship for the last five years, and is working on the sixth, having one conference win under their belts already. For this season they stand 2-1 in over-all play.

In the girls' basketball game, it was much the same story, with spectacular ball-control by Bunceton netting them a 37-13 triumph over Boonville Catholic. At half time, the Bunceton girls had a 10 point edge on the visitors, 15-5. Anna Bryan dumped in 16 points to star for Bunceton, while Westman scored eight points to lead Boonville Catholic. The girls are 5-1 for the season and 1-0 in the conference this year.

UNSOCIAL CLIMBER—Bills' M. C. Reynolds, 14, clambers over the backs of his linemen—recumbent Ed Muehlaupt and falling-down Al Bemiller, 50, for the last foot and a fourth-quarter touchdown in Buffalo. Houston Oilers' Rich Michael, 77, is doing his best to press the climber's nose into the scramble. The Oilers won, despite Reynolds' big effort.

Houstonia Shamrocks Are Lucky

The Houstonia Shamrocks had a lucky streak Tuesday night as their top player, Robert Sevier, got lucky and hit almost every shot, as they defeated the Nelson Eagles in a close game, 77-65, at Houstonia.

Robert Sevier, a 5 foot, 11 in. guard had one excellent evening as he ended up top for the Shamrocks with 40 points, scoring over half the points his team made. Inskip, the Eagle counterpart, managed only half as many, scoring 20.

Houstonia seemed to be on their toes and were able to keep a running lead all the way thru the game. Several substitutes were run in for the Shamrocks. In the girls' game Nelson came back to take a surprising upset from Houstonia, 29-24.

Emma Hedgpeth, Shamrock girls' star sophomore, was high for her team with 14 perfect points. Martin topped the Eagles with 14 also.

The Shamrocks had trouble getting started. It seemed as if they were always doing something wrong. The Nelson team put up a good fight and maybe the Shamrocks had the loss coming since they defeated the Eagles for second place in the Alma conference several weeks ago.

Gifford Back To Haunt Philly Eagles

NEW YORK (AP) — Frank Gifford is back to haunt the Philadelphia Eagles.

He won't don his old No. 16 jersey for the New York Giants' crucial game against the Eastern Conference leaders on Sunday. A jarring tackle a year ago by Eagles' linebacker Chuck Bednarik helped him decide to lay it aside for all time.

Gifford is the Giants' scout now, after that tackle—a clean, hard shot—caused a severe concussion and convinced him that his playing days were over. It happened on the same Yankee Stadium gridiron where the teams will meet this Sunday.

And it will be there that the Giants will use the extensive book on the Eagles that Gifford has compiled from the six games he's seen the defending National Football League champions play this year.

This, more than anything else, may bring the New Yorkers into a tie with the Birds for the conference lead with a victory. There'll be another first place battle in the Western Conference as Green Bay faces second-place Chicago. Baltimore is at Minnesota and San Francisco and Los Angeles meet in other Western games while Dallas is at Pittsburgh, Cleveland plays winless Washington and St. Louis meets Detroit.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Because of an on-orbit malfunction, Discoverer 34's capsule won't be recovered.

The Air Force, in making the announcement Tuesday, gave no further details.

Smith Scores 4 Touchdowns For North Texas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bobby Smith, a sophomore half-back from Corpus Christi, Tex., scored four touchdowns in North Texas State's 28-21 victory over Drake last Saturday and gained Missouri Valley Conference back of the week honors.

Taking top honors in the Valley for the second straight week, Smith scored on runs of 9, 1, 19 and 29 yards. He leads the conference in scoring 42 points and in rushing with 516 yards in 7 games. Lineman of the week honors went to Charlie Wright, Wichita junior guard, who stood out in the Shockers' 25-13 victory over Oklahoma State.

Richard Farris, North Texas guard, also was cited for strong play Saturday.

Other backs gaining mention were Alex Zyskowski, Wichita; Bo Bolinger, Tulsa; David White, Tulsa, and Larry Harp, Cincinnati.

Hall Named As Lineman Of the Week

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—"I don't know what to say, I'm very grateful to everyone for helping me get such an honor."

That was end Tom Hall's reaction today after being named Associated Press Lineman of the Week for his play in Minnesota's 13-0 upset victory over Michigan State Saturday.

"It sure feels good," Hall continued in his soft-spoken manner. "Give the credit to Butch Nash, though. He's the one who has done the most toward my receiving this honor." Nash is Minnesota end coach.

Hall, tabbed by Minnesota coaches as one of the most underrated players in the Big Ten, was very instrumental in last week's victory. Minnesota's fourth straight in conference play.

He snared two passes in the Gophers' first touchdown drive, grabbed another as the Gophers penetrated Spartan territory in fourth period and then pounced on a fumble after that drive fizzled. The Gophers then went in to score the clinching touchdown.

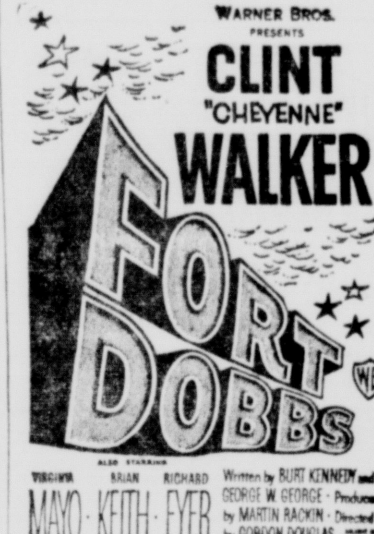

Despite Hall's outstanding work on offense, it was his play on defense which contributed greatly to the Minnesota cause. He was constantly in the opposing back field, harassing passer Pete Smith, and was a stone wall on end runs to his side.

the 7-foot-1 star got 18 of his in the second half and helped break a tie with four minutes left.

Hawkins tossed in 27 points as the Rens built up a 20-point lead in the first three quarters and coasted against Chicago.

Cohen got 8 field goals and 4 fouls for 20 points as the Hawaii team made a successful debut in league competition.

Back Support Must Be Paid By Singer

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—Rock n' roll singer Jerry Lee Lewis has until Nov. 24 to pay $700 in overdue child support or face punishment for contempt of court.

Judge Edward Quick gave Lewis that ultimatum Tuesday after ruling the singer's income is sufficient to make full monthly payments to a former wife, Jane Lewis Wilkinson of Ferriday, La. Attorneys said Lewis had been paying only $50 a month instead of the $150 the court had ordered.

Says Drinkers Should Abstain To Avoid Habit

CHICAGO (AP)—Drinkers should go on the wagon three or four days a month to keep from becoming alcoholics, says a non-abstaining expert on alcoholism.

The expert, Archer Tongue, executive director of the International Bureau Against Alcoholism, Lausanne, Switzerland, says he drinks beer or wine with meals and sometimes has a drink on other occasions.

But he told newsmen Tuesday: "A person should abstain completely for three or four days each month, just to make sure he doesn't become dependent upon alcohol. I do this."

Ann Landers

Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann: My husband works for the city as a garbage collector. Last week he brought home a badly tarnished vase which he found in one of the refuse cans. He said he thought it looked pretty good and maybe I could clean it up.

I spent about two hours scrubbing and polishing it and the vase turned out to be truly beautiful. I noticed some markings on the bottom and took the vase to an antique dealer to find out if the marks meant anything. The dealer told me the vase was a fine antique and he offered to buy it for $300. I refused to sell it because I was thrilled to own something so lovely.

Now my conscience is bothering me. My husband remembers the house where he picked it up. Do you think he has a moral obligation to return the vase?—Uneasy.

Dear Uneasy: No. Trash cans are for unwanted articles. The condition of the vase is evidence that the owner attached no importance to it.

Occasionally, a valuable article lands in the garbage can by mistake, in which case, of course it should be returned. But it seems clear that this item was consciously discarded, so please enjoy it with no misgivings.

Dear Ann Landers: I am the father of three children. My take home pay is $88 a week.

I've worked for 25 years and have nothing to show for it. We don't even own our home. My wife goes on buying spells and our credit rating is terrible. She lies about having paid bills and then I get calls where I work.

I've always given her my paycheck. She hands me 50c a week plus carfare. She gives each kid $2 a week because she says teenagers need more money these days.

Yesterday the teacher of our 11-year-old phoned to say she had to take money away from him because he was playing with it during class. I'm fed up and I don't know what to do. Please suggest something.—Trapped.

Dear Trapped: A father who would let his wife hand him 50c a week while his teenagers get $2 must be out of his head.

Tell your wife her handling of the money for the last 25 years hasn't been so hot and you're going to take over for the next 25. Sit down together and work out a budget. Pay a small amount out of every check to each of your creditors. Tell them how you intend to pay in full and ask them to bear with you. And close those charge accounts so your wife won't be tempted.

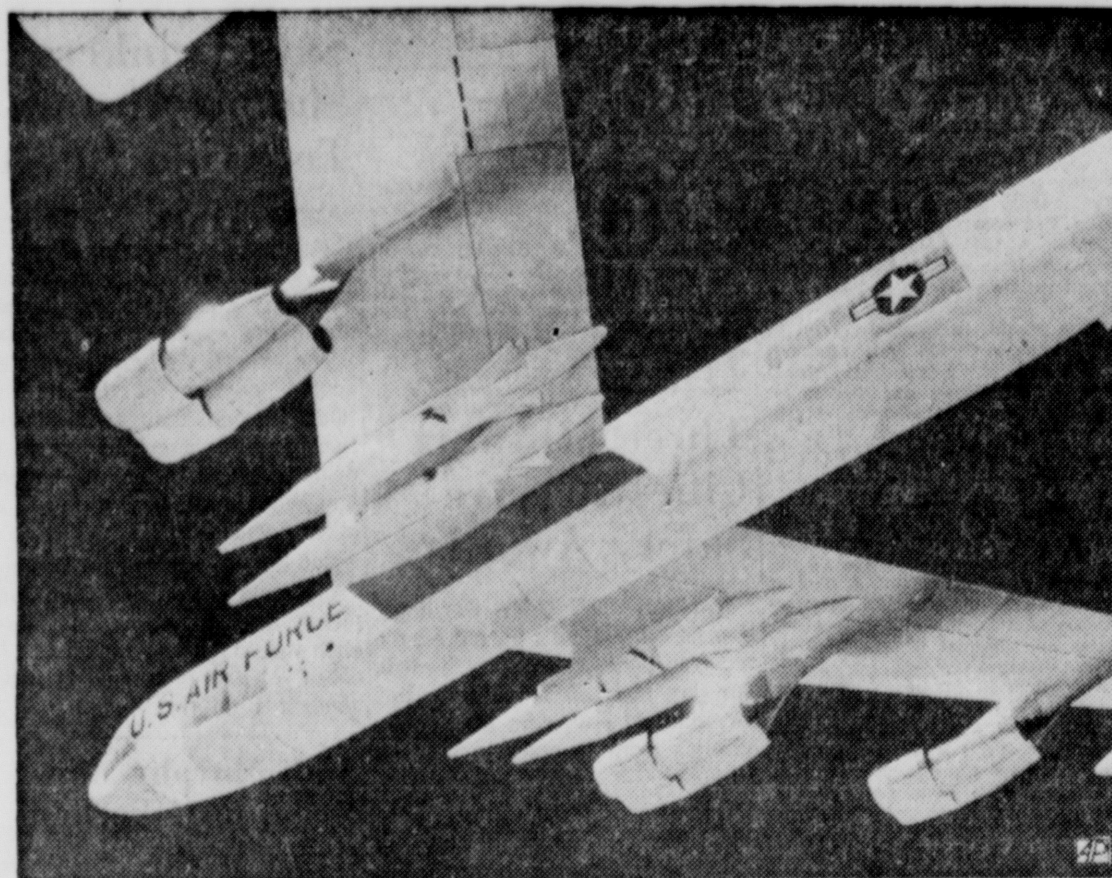

Dear Ann: I'm 17 and miserable. My father died two weeks before high school graduation. He was sick a long time and knew he was dying. He made Mom and us kids promise we'd spend no time mourning.

Even though it was hard for me, three weeks after Daddy died, Mom insisted I attend the prom and the senior class picnic. My older sister stood up at her best friend's wedding the following week.

My aunts and uncles are all mad at my mother. They say we are rotten daughters and that she should not have allowed us to do these things. They refuse to talk to her on the phone and she is left out of all family affairs. What can we do?—GLD.

Dear GLD: Ignore the relatives. Your mother deserves credit for having had the courage to do as your father requested.

Science At Work

Tuna Fast Globetrotter; Whales Are Nearly Human

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The remarkable odyssey of a tuna fish, the almost human behavior of the whale, and a new estimate of the distance from earth to the sun are subjects for science at work.

How Fast The Tuna

The tuna fish ranges far and wide—and apparently wastes little time en route.

A giant bluefin tuna was tagged by scientists off Cat Cay in the Bahamas on June 10 this year. It was caught off Bergen, Norway just 122 days later—some 5,300 direct miles away.

That means it covered some 33 miles a day, if it started the day it was tagged, swam the distance in a straight line without any sidetrips, and was caught the day it arrived.

The bluefin tuna, which is supposed to cruise at about three knots an hour, may have had some help from the Gulf Stream current part of the trip, say researchers at Woods Hole Oceanographic Institution.

How Human The Whale

Many whales and dolphins, besides being mammals like man, are also unusually intelligent animals—and scientists have long wanted to study them in their natural roaming area.

Although the size of the ocean and the uncooperative nature of the animals makes this difficult, scientists have been able to get some strange, homey views of some, like the Pacific pilot whale.

This small whale travels in hunting formations, feeding schools and even loafing groups.

Right between Galaxie and Falcon in size and in price, the 1962 Ford Fairlane 500 is just the right car for just about everybody; you have never been able to buy anything so right before.

Before the new Fairlane 500 this was your choice: big-car room, ride and performance, or compact-car economy and maneuverability. The new Fairlane 500 renders that choice obsolete. Big in room, ride and performance, it is still priced under most compacts. It nurses a nickel as though it never expected to see another. It moves like a rabbit on roller skates.

This is the story of the happiest change in cars in years.

New unitized body—a foot shorter outside...full-size inside

Ford engineers have changed the proportions of the car: a completely new unitized body gives you more room inside with less bulk outside. A foot shorter than previous Fairlanes, the new Fairlane 500 is pleasantly parkable, delightfully driveable, easily garageable. Suddenly the world is full of wide-open spaces that never seemed to exist before.

At the same time the new Fairlane 500 packs into its neat and nifty 197 inches as much passenger room as you had in some of the biggest Fords ever built. And its 115.5-inch wheelbase—substantially longer than any of the so-called super-compacts—means that your passengers ride as well as sit in complete comfort.

Twice-a-year maintenance

Routine service has been reduced to a minimum—30,000 miles on many items, twice a year on the rest. You go 30,000 miles between major lubrications, 6,000 miles between oil changes and minor lubrications. You don't even have to touch the engine coolant antifreeze for two years—or 30,000 miles—at a time. Brakes adjust themselves. Special processing to resist rust and corrosion protects the body life of your car toward the prime moment of trade-in—when all that Ford has put into the new Fairlane pays off in your pocket.

All-new economy Eight from world's V-8 leader

The hand that honed the Thunderbird—and sped the Falcon to all-time Economy Run honors—turned to a new problem here, the world's first economy V-8. Made possible by new Ford foundry methods, the new Challenger V-8 is as strong as iron—and a lot lighter than iron's ever been before. As lively as you'd like...thrillier than you'd ever expect a V-8 to be...it's a natural powerplant for America's first eat-your-cake-and-have-it car.

For those who want even greater thrift, there's a new Fairlane Six. Its economy would be gratifying in a smaller car. In a car this size it's a downright delight.

Preview America's newest car now

As part of Preview Run U.S.A., new Fairlane 500's are riding the nation's highways and main streets right now. Watch for them. See what thousands have already seen—and raved about. Take a turn at the wheel—and perhaps do a little raving yourself.

We think you'll agree: this all-new Ford is just right for just about everybody. No matter how many new cars you've looked at, you haven't seen anything like this one. It will be at your Ford Dealer's next week. If you miss it now, be sure to see it then.

It is one of Ford's milestone designs—and will be as influential in its way as the first mass-produced car (a Ford Model T), the first popular station wagon (a Ford Wagon), the first four-passenger luxury car (a Ford Thunderbird), the world's most successful compact (a Ford Falcon).
